Johnathan Chen got his start at Bergen Community College and transferred to Cornell University to major in Human Biology/Health and Society

After completing high school, Johnathan did not know what “he wanted to be.” He volunteered as an Emergency Medical Services driver and witnessed a doctor bring a man back to life after a car accident. “I wanted to have a job that can bring happiness to survivors and their families.” He enrolled at Bergen Community College, where the outstanding faculty instantly recognized Johnathan’s true potential and recommended him to the tutoring center, where he was able to help other students better understand chemistry. This year he transferred to Cornell University and plans to go to medical school to become a doctor in emergency medicine and trauma. Get your start at BCC today.
