History and Heritage CELEBRATION 2006

Monday November 13

Keynote Speaker:
Mr. Bei Dao, Nobel Laureate
Nominee for Literature.
11:00 A.M., Room A-104

Born in Beijing in 1949, Bei Dao is one of the most gifted writers in modern China, who became in the 1970s the poetic voice of his generation. In 1978, he co-founded the first unofficial literary journal since 1949 called Today (Jintian), which became a prominent forum for misty Poets, a group derided by the Communist literary establishment for their of obscure language and their departure from socialist realism. Since 1987, Bei Dao has lived and taught in England, Germany, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, France, and the United States, and his work has been translated into thirty languages.
