Course Description

PHR-122 Women and Religion analyzes the relationship of women to the major religious traditions of the world, including Judaism, Christianity, Islam, Hinduism, Buddhism, and others. The course will examine such issues as religious statements about the nature of women, religious codes of behavior for women, and the extent and nature of women's religious participation within the various traditions.

3 lectures, 3 credits

General Education Course – Humanities Elective

Student Learning Objectives: As a result of meeting the requirements in this course, students will be able to

1. analyze, evaluate, and explain women's relationships to major religious traditions.
2. assess statements about women's nature made by major religious traditions.
3. assess religious codes of behavior addressed specifically to women.
4. evaluate the level of women's participation in various religious traditions.
5. describe and explain the interplay between societal norms and religious expressions of those norms.

To achieve these objectives, students will be required to read and discuss both primary and secondary sources. There will also be substantial critical and analytical writing projects.

The Student Learning Objectives (SLOs) in this course are intended to be aligned with as many of the college's Core Competencies and General Education Goals as possible. They are also correlated with the overall Learning Goals of the Religion Program. In addition, student progress in reaching the course's SLOs is to be assessed through a variety of assessment types (tools) and on the basis of a variety of assessment criteria. These alignments and correlations will be linked here in the near future. [\[Back to course listing\]](#)

Course Content

[Under revision]

Special Features of the Course (if any) [to be designated by the instructor]

E.g., the use of learning technologies in the course (Internet, PowerPoint, etc.); the inclusion of technological literacy and/or information literacy learning in the course; etc.

Course Texts and/or Other Study Materials

Recommended Texts:

There is no single textbook that addresses all the aspects of this course, although there are several very good books that examine women's relationship to individual religions. As these works, however, often presuppose a background knowledge of the religions that students may not have, it is probably wiser to use anthologies such as those recommended here.

Christ, Carol, and Judith Plaskow, eds. Womanspirit Rising: A Feminist Reader in Religion. San Francisco: Harper, 1992.

Sharma, Arvind, and Katherine K. Young, eds. Feminism and World Religions. Albany: SUNY, 1999.

Very good, but more specialized, are the following:

Reuther, Rosemary Radford. Women and Redemption: A Theological History. Minneapolis: Fortress, 1998 (Christianity)

Gross, Rita M. Buddhism after Patriarchy. Albany: SUNY, 1993

Toubia, Nahid, ed. Women of the Arab World: The Coming Challenge. London: Zed, 1988

Sahab, Fatma. Women in the Muslim Unconscious. New York: Pergamon, 1984

Mitter, Sara. Dharma's Daughters: Contemporary Indian Women and Hindu Culture. New Brunswick: Rutgers UP, 1991

Plaskow, Judith. Standing Again at Sinai: Judaism from a Feminist Perspective. San Francisco: Harper, 1991.

Writing and Critical Thinking Requirement(s)

Because PHR-122 is a General Education course, it requires students to complete a variety of critical thinking and writing assignments. These assignments may include class discussions and debates requiring the application of critical thinking skills, short in-class essays, out-of-class writing projects (journals, research papers, argument-analysis papers, book reviews, etc.), tests and examinations containing essay components, and so forth. Instructors will respond to and comment on students' writing in detail.

Grading Policy

A student's final grade for the course is based primarily on his or her performance on the required work for the course (writing assignments, examinations, class presentations, etc.) and on his or her overall mastery of the material covered in the course. A student's class participation may also be evaluated, and the grade thereon may be used as a factor in determining the student's final grade for the course; but a class participation grade will count for no more than twenty percent (20%) of the final grade.

Attendance Policy

BCC Attendance Policy:

All students are expected to attend punctually every scheduled meeting of each course in which they are registered. Attendance and lateness policies and sanctions are to be determined by the instructor for each section of each course. These will be established in writing on the individual course outline. Attendance will be kept by the instructor for administrative and counseling purposes.

Philosophy and Religion Departmental Attendance Policy:

Students are expected to attend class regularly and punctually. Attendance will be taken at each class session. It is expected that class will be conducted such that students will benefit in their written work by the lectures and class discussion. If students occasionally arrive late, they should be encouraged to enter quietly, not disturbing the class. If students miss class, they should be encouraged to use the course calendar to stay abreast of material. It is probably a good idea for students to find study partners and to exchange telephone numbers. Make-ups for examinations should be allowed by the instructor if, in the instructor's judgment, the student has presented a good excuse for missing the work. Instructors may penalize work which is late; however, the instructor's policies for make-ups and late work must be clearly specified on the student guide.

Attendance Policy in this Course:

Include the following statement on Logos – The BCC Philosophy Club

Logos – The BCC Philosophy Club

Logos usually meets on Tuesdays during the Activities Period, 12:30-1:25 PM, in Room L-342. I encourage you to join the club. Since you are interested in the study of philosophy, you should find the meetings and other activities of the philosophy club very interesting. For further information, check the Philosophy & Religion bulletin board adjacent to Room L-325A or contact LOGOS Advisor, Dr. Vanda Bozicevic (L-331, 201-493-7528, vbozicevic@bergen.edu). (LOGOS does not hold regular meetings during the summer.)

Include a Course Outline and Calendar [can be combined in a single syllabus section]

The Course Outline and Calendar must include all of the following elements:

- A daily or (at least) weekly schedule of topics to be covered.
- Dates for exams, quizzes, or other means of assessment. (This does not mean that all evaluation of students must be in groups and at the same time. Exams and other means of assessment can be listed as "to be scheduled individually.")

- Due dates for major assignments – e.g., when is a paper due; if the topic has to be approved, when; if an outline or draft is an interim step, when it is due.
- Any required special events must be included in the outline/calendar, e.g., a lecture by a visiting speaker, a dramatic or musical performance, a field trip.
- Designation of Student Learning Objectives – by number – for each topic (see sample below).
- A note to students stating that the course outline and calendar is tentative and subject to change, depending upon the progress of the class.

SAMPLE COURSE OUTLINE

Note: This section of the departmental syllabus is under revision in order to bring it into conformity with the (relatively new) BCC policy on the layout and content of syllabi for general education courses.

Required Texts: Christ, Carol, and Judith Plaskow, eds. Womanspirit Rising: A Feminist Reader in Religion. San Francisco: Harper, 1992.
Sharma, Arvind, and Katherine K. Young, eds. Feminism and World Religions. Albany: SUNY, 1999.

Course Requirements:

1. Students must complete all reading assignments by the date specified on the Calendar of Assignments.
2. Students must participate fully in class discussions of the assigned readings.
3. Students must write two short research papers (4-5 typed pages) drawn from topics listed on the Supplemental Assignment sheet. Papers must conform to MLA style of documentation.
4. There will be a midterm and a final examination.
5. Students are expected to attend all scheduled classes. Excessive absences will seriously affect a student's final grade.

Evaluation: 20% each paper; 20% midterm; 20% final exam; 20% class participation.
